

Letter: 'Black & White' and danced all over

Wednesday, November 22, 2006

Last Saturday night, the student directors of the Sherborn Community Center Foundation hosted the first Black & White Formal Dance for the freshman and sophomore students of the community. Music was provided by DJ James "Kupah" Cooper, and the food was prepared by the directors of the Community Center. By all accounts, it was a big success and everyone had a blast.

We are very proud of our participation and involvement in our Community Center. For the first time in the 21-year history of the foundation we, as students are getting exposed to how a nonprofit organization is managed. From preparing for board meeting presentations to reviewing and executing strategies, we are involved. Our charge is to draw the younger generation into the center by hosting events that appeal to them.

There are additional planning sessions for student related events. For example, a Valentine's Dance in February is in the works for the middle school students. More to follow!
